

By Jeff Ritter

One of the best things about golf is the ability to play at some of the world's most exotic locales. But lugging the clubs to airports, hotels and in and out of rental cars can be a drain, and golf travel bags can be pricey. Bulky hard cases provide optimum security, but are a bear to haul. Soft cases are easier to maneuver, but don't provide as much protection.

Enter the all-in-one golf and travel bag. As lightweight and durable as those by leading manufactures, but with a twist: A hard case top that can easily be added for travel, and removed in seconds when it's time to hit the links. These bags come in several shapes and sizes, and all are ready for your next golf getaway. †

Bag Boy

www.bagboycompany.com

HGX: $129.95

Four side pockets are removable for extra storage

Cargo Golf

www.cargogolf.com

Pro 700: $149.99

A double-strap system makes this a smart choice for walkers

Travel-A-Lite

www.travelite.com

Ultima II: $147.95

Available in black or silver, and weighing in at a mere 5.6 lbs

