

Bag Boy Hires Product Manager

RICHMOND – May 8, 2002 – The Bag Boy Company today announced that it has hired Natalie Thomas as Product Manager. Thomas will be responsible for managing the supply chain while working closely with both international and domestic suppliers.

Thomas brings twelve years of product management experience to the position. She began her career as a product manager for the Paty Company in 1989. In 1993 she was hired as Product Manager for the Ben Hogan Company, managing all phases of clothing development and design. In 1997 Thomas was hired as Product Manager for Cross Creek/PGA Tour Apparel where she worked closely with the Tour to develop product that honored both tradition and the versatile needs of today's golfer.

"Natalie has made an immediate and positive impact within our organization," comments Leighton Klevana, Vice President. "She has extensive experience in the golf business which will allow her to contribute in many different areas within the company."

The Bag Boy Company was founded in 1946 and is recognized as an industry leader in the pull cart, golf bag and travel cover markets by providing outstanding customer service and dependable products for over 55 years. To learn more about Bag Boy or its products, log on to www.bagboycompany.com
